REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON THOSE WHO FAILED TO MAKE NINE HOURS The following report of the committee appointed by the President to investigate the matter of failures to make the necessary nine hours for remaining in the University was received:

"The Committee appointed to report on those students failing to make the required nine hours at the midyear, 1911, make the following recommendations:

1st. That all of the students be reinstated for the second semester.

2nd. That these students be notified that failure to make the required number of hours the second semester shall sever permanently their connection with the University."
The reason for the recommendation is that the disturbed conditions due to the typhoid scare have so complicated the situation that in order to avoid doing injustice it seems necessary to be lenient. The second part of the resolution is intended to insure against taking advantage of this leniency. The committee regards this as an emergency and in no respect a precedent for modifying the nine-hour rule.

semester hours of credit through work in the Correspondence Study

Department to be applied toward the Bachelor's degree, was adopted.

PROF. GLEN The following resolution was adopted by the faculty:

"As Prof. Glen has been one of us for so long a period, we, the faculty of the University of Oregon, feel it to be our privilege to express in some way our appreciation of his service here and our good feeling toward him personally, both in his immediate association with us and with his association with others of like aims in a sister institution.

As a student and instructor his claims on our friendship and good-will are, we feel, singularly strong. In his undergraduate days he was an honored leader in the student body, and at his graduation carried off in his Failing oration our most coveted prize.

As a member of the faculty his wide range of talents, both as teacher and administrator, created for him a place among us as valuable and stimulating as it was unique.

We have admired his rare gifts; we have been glad of his wise counsels; we have cherished his generous friendship.

In the assurance that our expression will find a ready and sincere response, we, as a faculty, send to Prof. Glen our greetings."

(3) Those students taking the following theoretical courses: Personal Hygiene, Theory of Gymnastics, Kinesiology, Applied Anatomy, Emergencies, Play and Playgrounds (total 11 semester hours), and such practice courses as may be prescribed by the department, shall receive a minor recommendation as teachers of Physical Training."

METHOD OF GRADING REPORT ADOPTED

The following report relative to the matter of grading was received:

"To the Faculty of the University:

Your committee appointed to present a scheme of marking for the consideration of the faculty submits the following recommendations:

First. That the system of grading by percentages of an undefined base be discontinued, and in lieu thereof the system of grading by rank be adopted for the purpose of assigning grade marks."
Second. The students in each class having been arranged by rank in the order of the merit of their respective achievements, the upper and lower quartiles shall be cut off from the whole group, and the two remaining quartiles shall be considered as composing a normal or medium group, and the students therein shall each be given the grade mark "A". The upper quartile shall be considered as composing a superior group, and each student therein shall be given a grade mark "B", except that a few of the highest ranking students, not exceeding one-fifth of the number in this group, may be given a higher grade mark "C", signifying that in the opinion of the instructor these students have excelled their fellows in the superior group so markedly that they are clearly entitled to be placed in a group by themselves. The lower quartile shall be considered as composing an inferior group, and each student therein shall be given a grade mark "D", except that in the lowest ranking students, whose achievements are not in the opinion of the instructor sufficient to entitle them to pass, shall be given a grade mark "F", signifying failure. (The terms "condition" and "incomplete" may be used in the sense now attached to them in lieu of grade marks; cases of withdrawal are to be counted in the lower quartile.)

The provisions of this second recommendation are not intended to be applied rigorously and at once, especially to small classes, but are intended to establish a standard to which the grade marks in each course must conform more and more nearly with the lapse of time.

In order to carry out more fully the existing rule of the faculty requiring the Registrar to report to the faculty each semester the number of marks of each grade assigned by each instructor, and also to assist in carrying out the foregoing recommendations, in case of their adoption, we recommend, Thirdly that a committee be appointed, consisting of the Registrar and two members of the faculty, whose duty it shall be to tabulate and plot, year by year, the grade marks assigned by each instructor in each course, and to furnish to each instructor an abbreviated statement or plot showing his degree of conformity to the adopted standard; provided, that no comparison with the standard shall be furnished in any course until 50 or more grade marks shall have been assigned in that course, unless at the request of the instructor. It shall be the further duty of this committee to report to the faculty from time to time such information relative to grade marks as the faculty may request.

We recommend that, in case of the adoption of this report, a special committee be appointed to revise the present system of assigning honors at graduation.

Respectfully submitted.

(signed) E.H. McAllister
J.F. Bovard

SENIOR THESSES AND SENIOR HONORS

The following report of the Committee on Theses and Honors at Graduation, was received:

1. That beginning with the academic year 1912-13 senior theses be made optional with the major professor, except as provided under paragraph 4.

2. That two types of excellence seem worthy of recognition by the faculty; a high average scholarship, and distinction in a particular branch or department of study.

3. That in place of the present system of granting the degree "cum laude" etc., the high average of general scholarship be determined and awarded recognition as, follows: For each semester hour of grade II, 4 Honor Points be allowed; for each semester hour of grade I, 1 Honor Point; for each semester hour of grade I, 2 Honor Points be subtracted; and for each semester hour of grade II, 4 Honor Points be subtracted. That the 25% of the class ranking highest, as determined by the computation of their Honor Points, have the assignment made on their diploma (provided their student himself desires it so placed) to the effect that James Smith "ranks sixteenth in General Scholarship in a class of ninety-seven".

4. That a new type of Honors be instituted, to be known as "Highest Honors in a Given Subject", to be granted by vote of the faculty on the recommendation of the appropriate committee. For each case this committee shall consist of not less than three members, consisting of the head of the major department as chairman, and representatives of other closely allied departments in which the candidate has worked. This committee may, at its own discretion, recommend for the honor, or refuse so to do. In making its decision, the committee shall consider:

FIRST, the candidate's ability to do independent and productive work in his own department (not necessarily a contribution to knowledge), as evidenced by a THESIS of unusual excellence and such other tests, formal or informal, as the committee may see fit to require. The word "thesis" shall be taken in a broad sense, to designate a piece of work exhibiting the capacity of the student for original work, but suited to the nature of the course in which the honors are to be granted. In case the limitations of the work of the department make such a thesis impracticable, its place shall be taken by a special examination, or series of examinations, serving to show the candidate's general grasp of the whole subject and thorough mastery of some definite limited field in which he has done special work.

SECOND, the committee shall consider the quality and quantity of work done by the candidate in his major subject, including both the number of courses regularly taken and the grades earned in them, and also his collateral reading and such evidence as he may present of his ability thus independently to acquire, discriminate and organize. Evidence of intellectual growth and development would naturally receive consideration.

THIRD, the committee may consider the candidate's work in and mastery of any subject or subjects so closely interrelated that they really affect his working command of his major subject.

This honor is intended to be, as it is called, the highest honor the University confers upon any student at graduation, equivalent to a recommendation for a scholarship or fellowship in a graduate school, and not to be won by a limited amount of work, or by work of elementary character, no matter how excellent. It will hence ordinarily call for four, or at least three consecutive years of work in the University, except in the case of departments not opening their courses to freshmen and sophomores, in which cases the work would naturally be correspondingly more intense.

These honors are to be made a part of the permanent records of the University, and mentioned in the diploma, the Commencement program, the catalog of the succeeding year, and the General Registers which may contain the name of the recipient. On the diploma, the Highest Honors shall take precedence over General Scholarship rank, e.g., Thomas Simpson graduates "with Highest Honors in Sanitary Engineering and ranks twelfth in General Scholarship in a class of eighty-six".

Every effort will naturally be made to give this highest honor such additional publicity and preferment, e.g., in recommendation for appointments, as shall tend to make it highly esteemed both by the recipient and by the student body generally.
