Special meeting of the faculty.

Professors DeCou, Dunn, and Sheldon absent.

The following regulations were adopted:

First: Students admitted as Freshmen, but having entrance conditions, may be allowed to make up during the first two years of their course, either in the University or elsewhere, a total equivalent of one preparatory unit; but the total number of hours for any one semester shall not exceed eighteen.

Second: Students admitted to classes above the freshman, but having deficiencies, may be allowed to carry an average of thirty-four semester hours per year, including work in the summer school, if any, but not more than eighteen hours may be carried during any one semester. In case this provision will not admit a graduation within a time proposed, no extra work shall be allowed. Permission to carry extra hours shall not be granted under this provision if students whose deficiencies result from failures.

Third: Students without deficiencies, whose record for the preceding semester shows a grade of at least "B" in two-thirds of their work, and no grade below "C", may be allowed to carry a maximum of eighteen hours; but the extra course or courses shall not count for graduation. Students carrying extra work under this provision shall be required to drop it in case their standing in any subsequent semester is reported below "C".

The committee appointed to ascertain what action may have been taken by the Board of Regents excluding all but voting members of the faculty from faculty meetings begs to report that no record of action of any kind relating to this matter can be found.

The records of faculty meetings up to and including the meeting of March 8, 1901, shows all instructors present and voting; the roll-call at all subsequent meetings shows the presence of Professors and Assistant Professors only.

In 1904 the Board appointed a committee to assemble and modify the various rules and regulations passed by the Board from time to time, etc., and the only reference to faculty meetings is contained in section 8, the significant portion of which is as follows:

Section 8. The faculty shall consist of the president and professors, although for the present the heads of all departments may be recognized as members thereof. It shall have the immediate government and discipline of the university and the students thereof, may make and enforce all necessary rules and regulations therefor, may prescribe courses of study and text-books. Regular meetings of the faculty shall be held at least once each month during the sessions of the university, and a record kept, etc.....

Since it appears to have been the intention of the board to define the governing body at the university, there seems to be no obstacle in the way of this body's admitting to its meetings at any time and place wherever it may wish to admit. This committee would recommend, therefore, that at all future regular meetings of the faculty, and to other meetings as may be deemed advisable, all members of the full rank force of the university of the rank of full instructor be invited and urged to be present.
